

WENT GUNNING FOR THE EDITOR

Former Senator Carmack Shot by Irate Reader.

TRAGIC END OF POLITICAL FEUD

Brilliant Editor of the Nashville Tennessean Was Met on the Street by Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, a Political Opponent, and the Latter's Son Robin, a Young Lawyer, and When the Smoke of Battle Cleared Away Carmack Was Lying Dead on the Pavement and Young Cooper Was Wounded.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Former Senator Edward Ward Carmack, editor of the Tennessean, was shot and killed late Monday afternoon on Seventh avenue north, in front of the Polk flats, by Robin Cooper, a son of Colonel Duncan B. Cooper. Mr. Cooper, going north on Seventh avenue, in front of the Polk flats as he passed the Cooper and his son Robin, who were standing on the sidewalk, firing Seventh avenue on the Cooper, it is said, firing another the shooting Cooper, it is said, firing Senator Carmack one. It is said, but it is said did not Carmack fell to the ground, and Robin Cooper was in the right shoulder. It was not hurt.

It is understood that the trouble is the result of the recent Democratic gubernatorial primary in which Carmack was defeated. Carmack has since he has been editor of the Tennessean, been quite caustic in criticizing what he called the Democratic machine, and has had several editorials about Colonel Cooper.

Within the past few days, it is said, Colonel Cooper notified Carmack that these editorial criticisms must cease. Monday morning another editorial reference to the Tennessean, and this is supposed to have been the immediate cause of the trouble.

As soon as Senator Carmack fell on the edge of the street, Colonel Duncan Cooper put his arm around Robin Cooper and both walked a few feet down Seventh avenue to Dr. R. G. Fort's office, where the slight wound in his shoulder was examined and the wound treated. Dr. Fort stated that the wound was very slight.

An ambulance carried the body of Mr. Carmack to an undertaking establishment. The pistol of Mr. Carmack, a 32-calibre, was lying at his side with two of the chambers empty when the body was picked up and was turned over to an officer. The stump of a cigar Mr. Carmack had been smoking was also on the street beside him, where it had fallen from his mouth as he fell.

Young Cooper was later carried to a hospital and Colonel Cooper is held at police headquarters. He has made no statement. Robin Cooper is a practicing attorney at law, twenty-seven years old and single.

Duncan Cooper is a well-known newspaper man and politician, having held executive positions on Nashville newspapers for several years.

Many Sensational Rumors.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—The body of former Senator E. W. Carmack, who was killed in a street duel with Robin J. Cooper, was sent to Columbia yesterday afternoon. The body was at once taken to the Carmack home, where the funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock. The tragedy is the absorbing topic in Nashville today and many sensational rumors have circulated.

Major General Frederick D. Grant has taken command of the department of the lakes.

COMES BACK TO SETTLE

William A. Adler Makes New Fortune in Honduras.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11.—As William A. Adler, former president of the defunct State National Bank of New Orleans, walked down the gang plank of the steamer Ellis, when he arrived from Honduras, many of his old friends threw their arms around his neck and kissed him on the cheek and a crowd of several thousand people, who had gathered to witness his arrival cheered him repeatedly. Adler is returning to New Orleans in the face of a federal indictment charging him with misapplication of $230,000 of the State Bank's funds, and he had no sooner greeted his friends than United States Marshal Loisel placed him under arrest. A carriage had been held in waiting and he was driven to the United States court, where Mayor Martin Behrman, former Mayor John Fitzpatrick and three prominent business men signed his bond. Each is liable for the entire amount, which was fixed at $10,000 by Judge E. D. Saunders.

Owing to the absence from the city of United States District Attorney Foster, the case will probably not come up for several days.

Adler left New Orleans last December on an old fruit steamer, the Alps, which he had loaded with a full cargo of provisions from the Adler wholesale grocery company. The affairs of the State National bank were later liquidated and Adler was indicted in the United States court on seventy-four different counts for misapplying its funds, while the grocery company went into the hands of receivers.

The Alps was wrecked off the coast of Honduras and Adler narrowly escaped death, but finally got safely ashore. He is said to have recouped his fallen fortunes by means of Honduran mining properties and other ventures.

COMMUNITY AROUSED

Incendiary Fire Followed by Arrest and Fatal Stabbing.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—As a result of an incendiary fire destroying the drug store and office of Dr. W. B. McClure at Sherburne, Bath county, one man is under arrest, another is probably fatally stabbed, and the whole community is wrought up over the affair. Bloodhounds took up the trail at the site of the burned buildings and followed it to the home of Harry Morgan, who was arrested. The officer was accompanied by T. G. Daugherty, whose barns were destroyed by night riders last spring. As the officer turned to leave the house with Daugherty and Morgan under arrest young Harry Morgan stabbed Daugherty twice. For a time a general fight seemed imminent, but the cooler men in the party prevented this. Harry Morgan is held at Sherburne.

Southern Cotton Conference.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11.—The Southern cotton conference was called to order here and temporary organization was perfected by the selection of W. J. Crawford as temporary chairman, and George Hoppe of Memphis and W. H. Gilbert of Chicote, Ark., temporary secretaries. Governor Patterson then welcomed the delegates and visitors to Memphis and to Tennessee. An interview Mr. Jordan said the conference would, in his opinion, be the most important cotton conference ever held.

Deaths Expected.

Nov. 11.—While in the hospital, it seems to have lately supported engagement to Elkins, daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of the Abruzzi, it is believed that there has been a change in the status of affairs. Several months, and announcement of any change in the very near future.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—As a result of a feudal war at Campion Junction, about twenty miles west of Jackson, Islow Allen, aged twenty years, was shot and killed; Alvin Garver, aged twenty-two, was badly injured, and Clarence Sherman, who did the shooting, was shot in the head but managed to escape to the mountains. Eight barrels of whisky shipped into town for the election brought on the trouble, although family troubles of long standing played a prominent part.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER

Body of Traveling Salesman Found in Empty Coal Car.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11.—That it was thrown aboard the train by those responsible for the man's death, is the only solution that can be offered in connection with the finding of the body of Lee Marshall, a traveling salesman of Mayfield, Ky., in an empty coal car attached to an Illinois Central train near here. Death resulted from two bullet wounds, and when found by the train crew, the body was still warm. No weapon was found which would indicate suicide.

The police so far have been unable to ascertain by whom the man was killed.

Dangerous Wild Fires.

Mayfield, Ky., Nov. 11.—Miles of creek bottom lands near Boaz, north of here were on fire and a large posse of citizens was compelled to desperately fight to keep the flames from entering that town, which has a population of over 300 persons. The fire was only a short distance west and the town was in grave danger. The fires also swept over Clark river bottom and the town of Kaler, in its pathway, was seriously menaced.

Merchant Slain by Partner.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 11.—S. C. Moore a furniture dealer, was shot and instantly killed by his partner, Frank Hockensmith at their place of business on Market street near Ninth. The men engaged in a quarrel over a business detail and when the clash came Hockensmith emptied a double barreled shotgun into Moore's body. Both men were members of well known Kentucky families.

FAVORABLE TO KENTUCKY

High Court's Decision in the Berea College Case.

Washington, Nov. 11.—In deciding the case of Berea college vs. the State of Kentucky favorably to the state, the supreme court of the United States held that the states of the Union may constitutionally legislate to prevent the co-education of the white and black races. The case was instituted to test the validity of the state law of 1904 prohibiting white and black children from attending the same schools. The higher state court took the position that the white and black races are naturally antagonistic and that the enforced separation of the children of the two is in the line of the preservation of the peace. The opinion of the supreme court was handed down by Justice Brewer and affirmed the finding of both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals. Justices Harlan and Day dissented.

CONSTITUTION STANDS

Quibble Against Virginia's Fundamental Law Not Sustained.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 11.—In the United States circuit court Judge Goff handed down an opinion in the case of John W. Brickhouse, a negro, against C. T. Brooks and William Jessup, election judges of Norfolk county, in which the validity of the new Virginia constitution was attacked on account of the failure of the members of the constitutional convention to take an oath to uphold the federal constitution. Brickhouse contended that the old constitution stood and therefore he has been illegally deprived of his right to vote. The court held that Brickhouse's contention was without merit and that as the new constitution had been declared valid by the legislature and the governor of Virginia, it was in fact the constitution of Virginia and will so remain until changed by the people of the state or overturned, not by the courts, but by revolution.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Four persons were found unconscious in the streets of this city in one night, having been knocked in the head by thugs. One of the victims, Charles Baggett, a negro, died soon after being found.

B. L. Owens, a white farmer, was picked up on Pine street with his head cut open. When he regained consciousness he said that a negro had struck him and robbed him of $40. An unknown young white man, well dressed, was picked up on Whiteside street unconscious. The last victim was a negro woman, who was found on East Ninth street with a ghastly cut in the center of her forehead.
